WHO Guidance

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

A woman is entitled to know the status of her pregnancy and to act on this information; health protection or social reasons can be interpreted to include distress of the pregnant woman caused by the diagnosis of foetal impairment. Prenatal tests and other medical diagnostic services cannot legally be refused because the woman may decide to terminate her pregnancy. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.1.4.

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

The human right to life requires protection by law, including when pregnancy is life-threatening or a pregnant woman’s life is otherwise endangered. Both medical and social conditions can constitute life-threatening conditions. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.1.1.

Additional notes

The Law on Abortion states that an abortion may not be performed after the twelfth week of pregnancy on any grounds other than a disease or physical defect in the woman. If the woman was not yet 17 years of age at the time of conception or there are other exceptional reasons, abortion is lawful at a later stage of pregnancy, although not after the 20th week.

The same gestational limits apply as in other cases: 12 weeks, exceptionally up to 20 weeks.

Number and cadre of health-care professional authorizations required

One or two physicians or national authority (depending on indication)

Doctor (Specialty Not Specified), Specialist Doctor, Including OB/GYN

Investigation by midwife, health sister or equivalent in the case that the birth and care of the child would be significantly burdensome for the woman

The Current Care Guidelines on Abortion by the Finnish Medical Society Duodecim and the Finnish Gynaecological Association Task Force on abortion address these issues. No evidence was found that these guidelines are endorsed by the government. They can be accessed here: http://www.terveysportti.fi/xmedia/hoi/hoi27050.pdf

An authorization is required for abortion after twelve weeks of gestation. In the cases of risk to life or health, rape, incest or when the delivery and care of a child would place a considerable strain on the woman, the separate recommendations of two physicians are needed. Of the two physicians, one shall be a physician who renders opinions on the termination of pregnancy (physician with authority to render an opinion) while the other shall be the physician who performs the operation (operating physician). In a case when the delivery and care of a child would place a considerable strain on the woman, a report on the living conditions of the woman and her family and other circumstances shall, if this seems justified in the particular case, be requested from the social welfare authorities or from a midwife, public health nurse or person of corresponding status. In the case of a woman who was less than 17 or more than 40 years of age at the time of conception, or has already had four children the physician who performs the operation decides. In the case of foetal impairments, the abortion must be authorised by the State Medical Board.

In situations where abortion is restricted for sex selection purposes, terminating a pregnancy for this reason is likely to involve an unsafe procedure carrying high risks. Any policies or guidelines on the use of technology in obstetric and fetal medicine should take into account the need to ensure women's access to safe abortion and other services - efforts to manage or limit sex selection should also not hamper or limit access to safe abortion services. WHO Guidance

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

Health-care professionals who claim conscientious objection must refer the woman to another willing and trained provider in the same, or another easily accessible health-care facility. Where referral is not possible, the health-care professional who objects, must provide safe abortion to save the woman’s life, to prevent serious injury to her health and provide urgent care when women present with complications from an unsafe or illegal abortion. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.2.5.
