WHO Guidance

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

The protection of women from cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment requires that those who have become pregnant as the result of coerced or forced sexual acts can lawfully access safe abortion services. Prompt, safe abortion services should be provided on the basis of a woman’s complaint rather than requiring forensic evidence or police examination. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.1.3.

Laws or policies that impose time limits on the length of pregnancy may have negative consequences for women, including forcing them to seek clandestine abortions and suffer social inequities. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.1.7.

Additional notes

The decision to perform the legal abortion, should be taken in each case with a weight of: (i) the grounds in question, (ii) medical criteria supported in particular physical and mental condition pregnant women and, in any case, (iii) the desire of it. And like all medical intervention should be preceded by an appropriate informed consent to perform the procedure and its risks and benefits. (Judicial decision, source 6).

Judges lack the competence to define the gestational age, and they cannot deny access to a legal abortion based on this point (Judicial decision, source 9).

Although it is not referenced in the source list of the questionnaire, this judgment T-532 set down by the Colombian Constitutional Court in 2014, requires that the legislature take steps to develop a legal framework that guarantees women and girls rights to access safe and legal abortion services in accordance with the decision C355 of 2006. The setting up of Commissions and boards to decide on access to legal and safe abortion is prohibited, as it is considered an unacceptable obstacle which could delay a woman or girl's access to safe abortion services to which they are entitled by law. Although a health professional has to "certify" the indication (e.g. health risk) the woman is the one entitled to decide whether to continue or terminate the pregnancy. (Judicial decision source 10). Health institutions or any other actor or professional cannot decide for the woman about the continuation or interruption of the pregnancy (Source 3, Instruction 5).

WHO Guidance

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

Regulatory, policy and programmatic barriers

Regulatory, policy and programmatic barriers, one example of which is the requirement for mandatory ultrasound prior to abortion, that hinder access to and timely provision of safe abortion care should be removed. Safe Abortion Guidelines, Executive Summary, Box 7 - Recommendation.

Compulsory counselling

Many women have made a decision to have an abortion before seeking care, and this decision should be respected without subjecting a woman to mandatory counselling. Provision of counselling to women who desire it should be voluntary, confidential, non-directive and by a trained person. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 2.1.8.1.

Compulsory waiting period

States should consider eliminating waiting periods that are not medically required, and expanding services to serve all eligible women promptly. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.2.6.

Additional notes

Health care institutions must respond to an abortion request and carry out the requested abortion within five days if medically possible.

Related documents: Constitutional Court Judgment T-841, 2011 (page 53)

Mandatory HIV screening test

Requirements for HIV and other tests that are not clinically indicated are potential service-delivery barriers. Safe Abortion Guidelines, p 88.

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

In situations where abortion is restricted for sex selection purposes, terminating a pregnancy for this reason is likely to involve an unsafe procedure carrying high risks. Any policies or guidelines on the use of technology in obstetric and fetal medicine should take into account the need to ensure women’s access to safe abortion and other services - efforts to manage or limit sex selection should also not hamper or limit access to safe abortion services. Preventing gender-biased sex selection: an interagency statement, p 10 - Recommendation.

Restrictions on information provided to the public

States should refrain from limiting access to means of maintaining sexual and reproductive health, including censoring, withholding or intentionally misrepresenting health-related information. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.2.7.

“When a public official makes public pronouncements on sexual and reproductive health issues such as voluntary termination of pregnancy, he should not issue erroneous or unfounded information as this violates the right to reproductive information.”

WHO Guidance

The following descriptions and recommendations were extracted from WHO guidance on safe abortion.

A woman is entitled to know the status of her pregnancy and to act on this information. Prenatal tests and other medical diagnostic services cannot legally be refused because the woman may decide to terminate her pregnancy. Safe Abortion Guidelines, § 4.2.1.4.
